ON THE GOSPEL

He that shall eat this bread, shall live forever.

If it was possible to preserve the life of the Israelites for forty years in the desert, without harvests, without grain, much more can He do this by means of Spiritual Food: of which these other foods were but figures. He repeats often this promise of Life; knowing that nothing is more desired by men. For this reason He was wont in the Old Testament to promise men long life. Here He promises Life without end. He wishes to reveal to them, at the same time, that he has now undone the sentence that imposed death on us, and that in its place He gives us the promise of everlasting life.

~ St. John Chrysostom, Archbishop of Constantinople, Doctor; 354-407.
