Reminder: First Friday and First Saturday devotions are this week. You are invited to a coffee social downstairs following Saturday’s devotions.

From the Diocesan Social Justice Commission:

How we care for an unexpected child, a parent suffering from cognitive impairment, or an infant with a disability does not reflect the degree of their humanity, but our own. We are as dependent on them as they are on us. There can be no compromise with the standard Jesus set and continually calls us to: The measure of love is to love without measure.

~ USCCB Respect Life Program flyer (2010). www.usccb.org

In order to protect nature, it is not enough to intervene with economic incentives or deterrents. The decisive issue is the overall moral tenor of society. If there is a lack of respect for the right to life and to a natural death, if human conception, gestation and birth are made artificial, if human embryos are sacrificed to research, the conscience of society ends up losing the concept of human ecology and, along with it, that of environmental ecology. It is contradictory to insist that future generations respect the natural environment when our educational systems and laws do not help them to respect themselves.

ON THE GOSPEL

But that you may know that the son of man has power on earth...

Whether the paralytic's sins were forgiven or not He alone knew Who forgave them. But both the man who arose, and those who saw him rise, were able to confirm the truth of the words: Arise and walk; though one and the same is the power to heal the body and to forgive sins. But between saying and doing, there is a wide distance. Let there be therefore a visible sign, that the spiritual wonder may be proved.

~ St. Jerome, Priest and Doctor; 347-420†.
